Phased out Diesel plant will close

By CHRISTINE RIZK
ANP Staff Writer

The announcement of major consolidation and modernization of the Detroit Diesel Allison plant by General Motors last week sent shock waves through the community and left workers wondering about their fate as the phase-out takes place over two years.

L.F. Koci, general manager of Detroit Diesel and GM vice-president, said all the Detroit-area diesel engine manufacturing operations will be consolidated at its Redford Township location over a period of two or three years.

It is not known how the move will affect GM employment.

Greater operating efficiency and product quality were attributed to the closure that will affect some 7,000 people in both Redford and Romulus.

Over 200 of the 1,360 people employed at the diesel plant in Romulus will be those of Romulus area residents.

The division's Romulus engineering center and worldwide parts distribution center will not be affected by the consolidation plans. Nearly 1,000 workers are employed there.

The announcement August 28 brought remarks of surprise and sent signals of distress to city officials who took pride in the fact that GM chose, in 1976, to locate one of its major divisions in Romulus.

Said Mayor Beverly McAnally, "I feel confident that the facility will be utilized. I expect every effort will be made to (see that) that happens."

McAnally, who received no advance warning of the closure of one of the largest employers in the city other than an invitation to attend an employee meeting, said she was assured by company officials that displaced workers would be absorbed into other plants wherever possible.

"It was a surprise," she admitted. "We were seeing and hearing things that told us something was occurring, though." McAnally said that recent tours through the diesel plant indicated that production had been cut back, as evidenced by fewer lines operating.

"We feel the great loss of a good friend," she said.

There is no count of those Romulus workers who are either union or non-union workers at all levels of employment, according to company or city officials.

Usually, where job seniority warrants, according to one company spokesperson, an employee is transferred to another location.

Responding to rumors that were circulating late Wednesday afternoon, McAnally said she had heard nothing definite about Chevrolet-Pontiac Canada group's take over of the plant facilities.

A spokesperson for CPC, another GM division, said Thursday that the group has "looked at the plant" for consideration in facility use but plans were "extremely tentative."

"Nothing has been decided at this time," Darwin Allen, director of media relations at CPC, said.

The Diesel Allison plant produces 8.2 liter diesel engines for trucks, busses and other industrial uses.

Brought into operation at a time when diesel engines were thought to be in high demand, the division has suffered from traditionally-served oil and mining companies that have "not recovered from their depressed levels of business," according to Koci.

"These factors, combined with the influx of diesel engines from Europe and Japan, are placing us under great pressure to find ways of cutting costs and improving productivity," he said.

The transfer of operations will take place beginning late this Fall for the first phase of the shut-down.

The diesel division received tax abatement from the city in 1976 and was allocated 12 years of reduced taxes.

It was scheduled to be placed back on the tax roles at full value in 1988, according to the city assessor, Matthew Raftary.

Of the $98.9 million total cash value, $83.1 million was abated for 12 years, of which three years remain.

According to Raftary, as long as GM owns building facilities, it must still pay taxes to the city.

There is no known direct effect on the city should GM begin to move personal property off plant premises.

"At this time, at least for this year, I don't see any changes (in taxes)," Raftary said. "As for the future, well, it's hard to tell, nothing like this has happened before."

The closing of the plant caused Congressman William Ford (D-15th District) to announce his disappointment but appreciation for GM having made the move public "well in advance of the proposed closing."

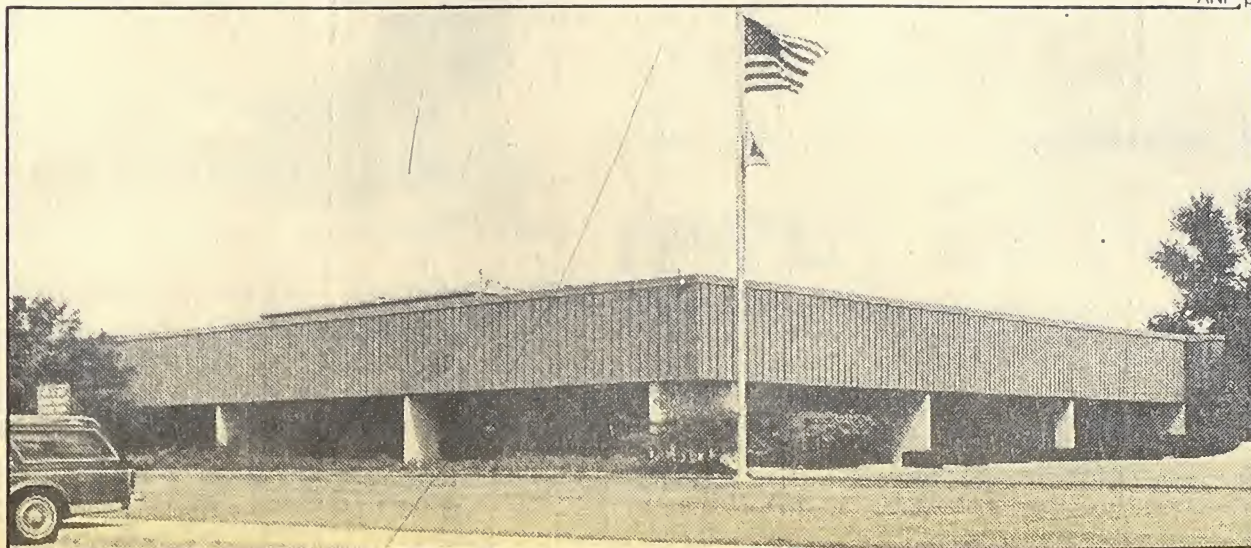

"GM said that the move will be spread out over a number of years and I sincerely hope that this will reduce the effect on the workers in (Romulus) and its surrounding communities."

Ford is the sponsor of a House Bill, H.R. 1616 entitled "Labor-Management Notification and Consultation Act of 1985" which would require employers to notify their employees at least three months prior to laying off more than 50 workers.

Bill reduces effects of layoffs

By CHRISTINE RIZK
ANP Staff Writer

The Michigan House Committee on Education and Labor approved a bill sponsored by Congressman William Ford that would help prevent plant closings and mass layoffs from taking a devastating toll on company employees.

The House, in July, approved H.R. 1616 entitled the Labor-Management Notification and Consultation Act of 1985 which means that it must now receive two-thirds vote of both the House and Senate to make its way into law.

The bill would require employers to notify their employees at least 90 days before closing a facility or laying off more than 50 workers.

Before closing, the employer would be required to consult with unions about alternatives to closing or layoffs.

Legislation would also set up a 15-member bipartisan national commission on plant closings to develop policies to prevent displacement of workers or future plants shut-downs.

The bill was authored by Ford as the result of the recent closings of major industrial plants in the mid-west and south.

It would essentially prevent employers from surprising employees with sudden plant closings that leave workers virtually helpless and unprepared for the future, Ford said.

"This kind of clandestine process is inherently wrong," he announced recently. "Yet it is exactly what hundreds of corporations do every year in this country."

Ford said that every year, "hundreds of thousands and sometimes millions" of Americans fall victim to plant closings with little, if any, advance warning.

The impact on society, in addition to the effects on displaced workers, is too great to allow the continuation of this practice, he said.

Prolonged problems such as income loss, continual unemployment, poor health, a higher death rate and increased alcoholism are attributed to massive layoffs by companies.

It is hoped that with the bill, should it pass both the House and the Senate (it now has 117 co-sponsors) the devastating effects of a plant closing could be dispelled by allowing for worker input and alternate proposals to be heard before action is taken by a company.

Ford said that "smokestack industries" are not the only areas susceptible to closures. Shut-downs occur in grocery and department stores, mines and high-tech companies.

The bill also provides methods for those companies who cannot give advance warning. If an employer can show proof of inability to meet with the bill's requirements, he can be excused from compliance.

Tentative settlement reaches board

By CHRISTINE RIZK
ANP Staff Writer

School will be opening as usual this year and teachers in the Romulus School District may be smiling now that a "framework of settlement" has been announced by their bargaining unit.

Although both administrators and teachers were not predicting a strike similar to those experienced in other districts around the state, both sides can agree that beginning the school year with the recent encouraging news is a plus for both students and teachers.

George Trudell, spokesman from the Michigan Education Association, said Tuesday that the tentative framework for settling a contract for district teachers would go before the school board this week.

Dorene McEvilly, secretary to Superintendent of Schools William Bedell, said an executive session was called Tuesday night to discuss a pending settlement.

Bedell was unavailable for comment.

In an interview Friday, Aug. 30, Bedell said the board was "very close" to negotiating an agreement. This assessment came before the teachers' union presented the actual language of the settlement.

At that time, Bedell said he would meet with the school board to "assess what a potential settlement might do to the (district)."

Trudell said the package will be presented to the bargaining committee before any public statement can be released about the terms of a settlement.

Unofficial comments on an agreement suggest that a wage increase and the length of the contract are major features.

Trudell, who said that a framework of settlement was devised over a week ago and it hit "a snag with board," said Tuesday that the current contract, as awarded by a court ruling in 1983, expired last month.

The Romulus School District experienced financial difficulties in 1982 that resulted in a 22 percent pay cut in teacher wages.

A year later, the district was instructed by the court to repay the money but with no interest at $1,000 per year.

Most, according to one teacher, experienced a $6,000 to $7,000 loss of income at the time of the cutbacks.

There has been virtually no wage increase for teachers since that time.

Juvenile queried in fire

By CHRISTINE RIZK
ANP Staff Writer

Juvenile authorities are evaluating the circumstances that led to the confession by a youth of a fire at a plastics fabricating plant last month. Police said that an investigation by Officer John Smagner and state fire officials led to the Aug. 9 confession by a 14-year-old resident of foster care home located next door to Vacuum Ornamental, located at 11380 Harrison, the scene of an early morning fire Aug. 3 that took more than 40 firefighters from Romulus and Taylor almost 12 hours to extinguish.

The youth, whose name was not released pending a determination by the probate court authorities, told police that he "accidentally" set the fire when playing with a book of lit matches and holding it in the air like a torch.

The youth said he dropped the book when his fingers were burned by the flames, a move that apparently has been attributed to the cause of the plant fire that began outside near a storage section by a dumpster and pallet area.

Damages to the building and contents at that time were set at $750,000, according to fire officials.

The building that was damaged was used for storage and was unoccupied at the time of the fire. The plant remained operable except for smoke and electrical damages.

The fire at the fabricating plant came just one week after firefighters responded to two other fires labeled as arsons at a pallet company located behind Vacuum Ornamental.

The fires were originally being treated as "related" by officials but authorities last week said the youth in the plastics case is not being questioned for the other fires.

The 14-year-old, who resides at Northwestern Guidance Clinic of Wayne on Harrison Road, a home for emotionally and physically abused children, police said, could be tried in juvenile court and sentenced as a minor.

The youth has no past record and remains at the home. No criminal charges have been filed yet.

The incidents of youth-related fires is fast becoming a major problem for law-enforcement authorities in the United States, police said.

More often than not, those fires not accidentally set are started by children who are troubled and seek attention.

Romulus and post office officials were on hand Saturday for the long-awaited opening of the new post office on 11000 Hunt Street. In front is Congressman William Ford, Beula Morris, for whose husband, Carl, the building was dedicated, and Paul Carlin, U.S. Post Master General.

Irene Grenier of Romulus, an independent beauty consultant for Mary Kay Cosmetics, has just returned home from three days of intensive sales and product training in Dallas as a participant in Mary Kay's 1985 national seminar.

More than 30,000 independent beauty consultants and sales directors flocked to Dallas between July 22 and Aug. 3 to attend one of four consecutive three-day meetings. In keeping with the company's commitment to recognize outstanding business women, this year's multi-million-dollar seminar was appropriately entitled "Applause, Applause!"

To enable Grenier, who joined Mary Kay in April, 1984, to build her Mary Kay business in the months ahead, dozens of specialized classes were held each day in product knowledge, color awareness, sales training, business management, goal setting and other valuable tools for business success.

Besides intensive training, company founder and Chairman of the Board Mary Kay Ash also uses the annual meeting to personally reward and recognize the outstanding achievers of the past year. During four identical Awards Night extravaganzas, the company distributed more than a $1 million in fur coats and jackets, luxury vacations, shopping sprees and gold and diamond jewelry.

Mary Kay Cosmetics, Inc. is an international manufacturer and distributor of premium skin, hair and body care products, cosmetics, toiletries and fragrances.

Student wins award

Darlene Loyer, daughter of Sophia and Lester Loyer of Bemis Road, Belleville, has been awarded a Ripon College ROTC Scholarship and will enroll at the Wisconsin college this fall.

A graduate of Belleville High School, Loyer is one of 25 students entering Ripon having been awarded an ROTC Scholarship. This scholarship is awarded to incoming freshmen with records of exceptional academic merit, leadership potential, extracurricular involvement and who have stated intent to pursue Army ROTC at Ripon College. The scholarships range in value up to $1,000. Ripon College is a traditional four-year liberal arts and sciences college located in east-central Wisconsin.

Reclaming plant seeks license

By CHRISTINE RIZK
ANP Staff Writer

A proposal to license a hazardous waste facility in Romulus that was once cited for violations met little opposition as

It is the DNR's opinion that at this time, very few problems exist on the site to prevent the company from continuing to operate.

Department of Natural Resource officials heard citizen input during a public hearing Wednesday, Aug. 28. Chemical Recovery Systems, Inc. has requested authorization from the DNR to operate a hazardous waste treatment and storage facility in accordance with DNR licensing regulations.

The request comes just one year after the company complied with DNR requirements after having been cited for numerous violations, including contaminating ground water and storing too many waste-contaminated barrels.

The company is located at 36345 Van Born Road.

Changes in 1980 in the licensing procedures of landfills and chemical recovery plants for hazardous waste material led to the company's application recently to the DNR.

In all likelihood, according to DNR officials, unless violations can be pinpointed that demand a denial of licensure, the company will be approved for waste recovery.

The company is allowed, under federal rule, to continue operating, in compliance with those laws already in effect up to 1980, until a report is administered by the DNR Sept. 12, according to Ken Burta, DNR chief of the hazardous waste unit.

The public hearing is one step in the licensing procedure.

Chemical Recovery had operated for a number of years and was not regulated by P.A. 64, a ruling that sets forth landfill and hazardous waste recovery operations.

Effective April 1981, all hazardous waste facilities were required, in compliance with Act 64, to resubmit an application for operating existing facilities.

The recent bid by the company comes after having met with Act 64 provisions requir-

Protection Agency constraints will provide even further monitoring.

"We're just getting to the point where they (Chemical Recovery) have cleaned up the site and got a permit that should insure the health and safety of the people," Burta told an unbelieving crowd.

"This program is a top priority. We don't want to have to get into Superfund clean-up projects again," he explained. "We want to make sure we monitor any company so we don't have that kind of clean-up ever again."

So far, the only money expended by the DNR was used toward monitoring and inspections.

The DNR is encouraging legitimate operators of waste recovery to help eliminate the need for landfills, which can cause even greater damage to the environment and public health.

"Any kind of facility that re-ing site clean-up and drain installations.

In May 1982, the company's operating license was denied because of technical violations at the facility.

Chemical Recovery contested the DNR ruling that same year and, under court order, completed compliance with Act 64 in Spring 1984.

Clean-up consisted of excavation and removal of drums

"Based on all technical reviews required under Act 64, they have met with regulations."

— Ken Burta
Chief of Michigan's Hazardous Waste Unit

on the site from the 1970s and removal of waste materials from a previous operator, for which licensing had originally been denied.

The DNR agreed to review the company's latest revised application last year.

Under DNR regulations, the company may not store more than 400 barrels of waste material. Slurry walls, barriers made of clay-like material that are very thick and soupy and solidify to form impermeable barriers, are now in place to prevent leakage of contaminated water to outside areas.

The DNR will test the company every three months to determine water, air and land contamination.

Officials admitted that while there is still contamination on the site, there is very little likelihood that all areas confined within the slurry walls will ever be entirely decontaminated.

In addition, Environmental bery of a local gas station, according to the police reports.

Albert Bryant was arrested that same day and charged with armed robbery in the evening hold-up of a Total Gas Station located at 35351 Goddard Road.

He was arraigned Aug. 24 in 34th District Court and remains in Wayne County Jail after failing to post 10 percent of $100,000 bond.

The preliminary examination is scheduled today (Wednesday).

A 19-year-old female attendant on duty at the time told police that another male suspect robbed the station and escaped on foot.

The suspect who allegedly performed the actual hold-up and is still at large.

Bryant, according to witness statements, allegedly stopped a red Chevette to allow the robbery suspect to enter into the vehicle after the theft had taken place.

Witnesses provided police with the vehicle's license plate number after pursuing the robbery suspect on foot. Shortly after, Officers Emmett Barnes and Tom Ellis observed the Chevette. Upon searching the car, officers found an undisclosed amount of cash reported missing from the gas station.

The second suspect is a black male with short black hair, 20-30 years-of-age, approximately 5'10 and weighing 150 pounds.

The suspect was allegedly wearing a blue and white ballcap and breen nylon waist-length jacket.

Police are asking anyone with information about the suspect to contact the detective bureau at 941-8400.

Weight Watchers celebrates birthday

Weight watchers and friends are invited to join in the the Romulus recreation center's first birthday celebration where more than 1600 members have shed over 3,000 pounds.

Regular class information along with gift giveaways and the chance to meet Florine Mark, President of the Weight Watchers Group, Inc. will be offered in addition to cake taste-testing at 6 p.m. Sept. 12.

Festivities will be hosted at the Romulus recreation center at 36515 Bibbins. The entire event is free and open to the public.

Huron seniors plan trips

Huron Township senior citizens are planning a trip to the Ozark Mountains for seven days and six night Sept. 23. Cost is $499 and a $20 deposit is required to hold reservations.

The price includes transportation, meals, hotel accommodations, two music shows and sight seeing.

For more information, contact Mary Butz at 941-0379.

In addition to the trip to the Ozark Mountains, Huron seniors will head for Mackinac Island for their annual citizens event Oct. 23, 24, and 25. A $199 price, including a $10 deposit, is required.

The trip includes transportation, lodging at the Grand Hotel, two breakfasts, two dinners and a boat ride.

For more information, contact Mary Butz at 941-0379.

Romulus Fall senior activities set

Romulus senior citizen Fall activities include knitting and crocheting, bowling, ceramic classes, square dancing, bingo, crafts, flower arranging and quilting.

In addition to these classes, haircuts and day and extended trips are planned.

Day classes are 50 cents. Evening classes are 75 cents and $1.50 for non-residents. For information on how you can sign up or learn more about senior activity offerings, contact the senior center at 941-0666 Ext. 254.

Public hearing scheduled for motel proposal

A public hearing for Airport Luxury Suites, Ltd. is planned for 7:15 p.m. Oct. 7.

Discussed will be the proposed construction and equipping of a 67,000 square foot three-story motel facility on four acres of property on 31800 Wick Road.

Housing Rehabilitation loans offered

Money is available for low-income residents who wish to upgrade existing housing conditions to conform with local BOCA codes for interior and exterior home improvements.

Under recent revisions in the Housing Rehabilitation Program, loans can be obtained from the city on the basis of the extent of damage to the home and economic status of the homeowner.

For more information, contact the Community Development Department at 941-0666.

Police work longer hours, less days

Temporary reductions in police department staffing has led to the inception of a 10-hour work day for the department. The city council, in conjunction with Mayor Beverly McAnally's recommendation, recently extended the 10-hour, four-day work week schedule for patrol duty and uniform officers an indefinite period.

The purpose of the altered scheduling is expected to offer better coverage and reduce department overtime since the departure of eight Romulus police officers.

Fall recreation classes begin

Registration for Fall and Winter Romulus recreation dance classes begins Tuesday, Sept. 3. Fees are $15 for a 10-week session. Classes will be held at the recreation building beginning Oct. 2.

For schedule information and registration, contact the recreation department at 941-0666, ext. 254.

Gymnastic and karate classes begin Sept. 2 at the recreation department. Registration fee for gymnastics is $17 for a 10-week session and $50 for karate classes.

Beginners, intermediate and advanced gymnastic classes will be held at North Junior High beginning Oct. 3. Karate classes begin Friday, Oct. 4.

Body found in car under investigation

The Wayne County Sheriff's office is investigating the death of a Wayne resident whose body was found in the trunk of a car Wednesday, Aug. 28, at Detroit Metropolitan Airport.

The decomposed body of John Wayne Ritchie, 31, was found in the trunk of a 1977 Chevy Camaro parked on the second deck of a parking structure at Metro airport, according to airport police.

Ritchie had been shot in the face with a .12 gauge shot gun at a distance of approximately two to four feet away, according to Sgt. Bill Wadsworth, one of the officers who discovered the body.

A parking ticket receipt found on the windshield indicated that the car had arrived at Metro 2:20 p.m. Aug. 23. A Wayne County coroner's report indicated that Ritchie's body had been transported to the airport parking facility after he had been shot.

A foul odor emitted from the vehicle alerted a meat cutter, who happened to be passing through the parking structure at the time and who suspected that the stench was not that of an animal.

Ritchie was last seen alive the evening of Thursday, Aug. 22 at approximately 10 p.m., according to authorities. Police said they had no idea how long the body had been inside the trunk.

Investigators have no firm leads and have indicated that several possibilities are being followed.

Ritchie, who, according to sources in the Sheriff's Department, allegedly was on probation for a rape conviction at the time of death, had had numerous contacts with the Wayne Police, although Fred Stafford, deputy director of the department, declined to elaborate on those contacts.

Nancy Mooradian, of Wayne County Executive Bill Lucas' office, in an interview Friday indicated that Sheriff's detectives are not "investigating him (Ritchie) for drug trafficking."

Anyone with any information about the death can contact the Wayne County Sheriff's office at 941-3678.

WHEELS FOR LIFE BIKE-A-THON...The Saint Judes Children's Research Hospital (otherwise known as the 'Haven of Healing for Stricken Children') will soon sponsor their Wheels for Life Bike-A-Thon.

Saint Judes was founded by the well-known actor Danny Thomas. The hospital is a non-sectarian, inter-racial research hospital which is open to patients admitted to one of its research studies by doctor referral.

Danny Thomas' hopes of alleviating childhood diseases that kill or cripple helpless children are becoming more of a reality due to the volunteer contributions and grants received by Saint Judes.

The hospital researches such diseases as leukemia, acute lymphocytic leukemia, Hodgkins Disease and other forms of cancer, infantile malnutrition, muscle disorders and sickle-cell anemia.

JOIN THE 'RIDE AGAINST CHILDHOOD CANCER'...Encourage your child to take pledges and enter the bike-a-thon. Pledge sheets are available through schools, the library, city hall and the recreation department.

Children who raise $25 or more will be eligible to receive a special T-shirt. Children raising $75 or more will receive a T-shirt plus a tote bag.

Children under 18 years-of-age require a parent's signature to participate.

The Wheels for Life Bike-a-thon will begin at noon on Saturday, Sept. 21 at city hall.

Further information can be obtained through committee head Joan Omarza at 941-7736 or the recreation department at 941-0666.

MACRAME AND CRAFTS CLASSES...The recreation department has found an excellent teacher, now all they need are interested students!

If you have an interest in Tuesday macrame classes from 1 p.m.-3:30 p.m. or Thursday craft classes from 9:30 a.m.-11:30 a.m., call Marilyn at 941-0666, ext. 254.

EVENING CERAMIC CLASSES...will meet on Mondays from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. and quilting classes will be scheduled Thursdays from 7 p.m.-9 p.m. beginning this month.

Evening classes cost 75 cents for residents and $1 for non-residents. Day classes are only 50 cents regardless of residency.

All ages are invited to attend any class at the recreation department, 36515 Bibbins, Romulus.

FRIENDS OF THE LIBRARY...are planning another used book sale Sept. 23 through 25 at the Romulus Public Library during library hours. Stop by and pick up some bargain books from a darn good place to find them!

Public doesn't rate school discipline as major woe

Most Americans, according to a new comparative study of public opinion polling results, do not see discipline as the major problem in local schools.

The study, published by the National Education Association, reports that in 16 years of public opinion polling by Gallup and Phi Delta Kappa, the education honor society, an average of only one person in four has ranked discipline as the Number One problem facing America's public schools.

Asked to identify "the biggest problems with which the public schools in this community must deal," only between 14 and 26 percent of the respondents named discipline in the Gallup/Phi Delta Kappa polling.

Measuring the extent of the school discipline problem, notes NEA President Mary Hatwood Futrell, has always been complicated by the difficulty of defining "discipline problem." Some people are referring to vandalism and other acts of violence when they speak of school discipline problems. Others equate discipline problems with a lack of respect for authority.

"Discipline problems often mean one thing to teachers or parents and something very different to non-parents."

— Mary Futrell

"Discipline problems often mean one thing to teachers or parents and something very different to non-parents," explains Futrell. "As a result of this difficulty in measuring 'discipline,' the discipline problem may have been exaggerated over the years."

Polling questions, adds Futrell, "can also lead respondents to answers that can distort the public's real feeling about an issue."

A case in point: In one Gallup/Phi Delta Kappa poll respondents were asked: "Many people say that discipline is one of the major problems of the public schools today. Would you please look over this list and tell me which reasons you think are most important to explain why there is a discipline problem."

An overwhelming number of all the respondents—72 percent—said the "lack of discipline at home" was at the root of school discipline problems. Interestingly, when not prompted, an average of 75 percent of those polled said that discipline was not a major problem in their school.

NEA polls have found growing teacher satisfaction with the school discipline climate. In 1984, 68 percent of teachers said they were satisfied with student behavior in their classes, and an even higher number, 85 percent, said their schools provided a safe and orderly environment. Only five years earlier, in 1979, 74 percent of teachers said that discipline problems impaired their ability to teach.

"Both educators and parents agree that we have to instill discipline early and firmly at home first," says Futrell. "If teachers and parents could discuss the needs and problems of each child—even before the child ever enters a classroom—then each child would be better served. The more consistent the discipline a child receives, the better off the child's education."

dan's dogs

by dan a morris

Editor's note: Dan Morris has been a professional dog trainer for more than 20 years and has worked in all phases of dog training. If you have a specific problem, his advice is available by writing to him in care of Associated Newspapers Inc., P.O. Box 578 Wayne, Michigan 48184. He will reply in this column.

Here's a surprise for all of you dog lovers, who are having problems with their dog chewing furniture, messing on you Karistan carpeting or ventilating your newest Nikes, all out of rebellion.

The dog described above is the trained dog, who seems to be having a mysterious change of personality. This is the dog, who never messed in the house, even as a puppy; this is the dog, who wouldn't dream of jumping on the couch, let alone chewing the cushions; this is the dog who brought you your slippers, not ate them.

What's happening?! The dog is simply looking for attention and is rebelling in order to get it! The more outraged we become at his behavior, the more negative things he'll do. This is a common problem faced by those people who, after putting their dog through obedience, neglected to work with him ever again. He misses the attention gained by performing and feels his self-worth in the family has disappeared. To eliminate this negative behavior, the family must start reinforcing the obedience training at least 10 minutes daily for a minimum of 3 days a week. This should turn the dog around.

Another solution - and here's where the surprise enters - is to purchase another dog. Before you get too excited, let me assure you, two dogs are easier to care for than one because contrary to how it appears, you will be required to do less with the dogs, entertain the dogs less frequently, and as is almost 100 percent the case, the older dog will mother the pup and because the pup will follow the older dog around, you will be spared the demands and patience required to house-break the new pup - the older dog will do all this for you.

The two dogs will be company and security for one another, the older dog will groom the younger, and they will romp and play together, forgetting all about getting even with their human family by chewing, messing and annoying them for attention.

The best workable combination is male/female or female/female - never two males for they will fight for supremacy where the other combinations won't.

So consider adopting another dog. After all, loving two dogs comes easy to any dog lover ... and then there's the option of three dogs

CARPETING IS NOT CONSIDERED AN EYESORE!!!
Dear Letter Writer:

There is a house in my neighborhood that looks terrible. I have written many letters and can't seem to get anyone's attention. Now I would like to write a letter to the mayor of our City.

Thanks for your help, DDD
Dear Mayor:

This letter is being written to attempt to amicably resolve a very frustrating and annoying situation that presently exists in my neighborhood. The referenced property is strewn with approximately 17 pieces of "red" indoor carpeting, each piece being approximately 20 by 3 feet. In short, the entire backyard is littered with carpeting, logs, rocks, weeds, and garden, a maximum of 10 percent of the yard is green grass. This location is contiguous to our home and is a daily source of annoyance.

The following is a brief overview of the events that have occurred thus far:

In May of 1984, I contacted, by telephone and, subsequently, met, in person, with the zoning inspector. He was sympathetic to the problem, assured me that there was a city code violation, however, indicated that I would have to wait until the first frost to enforce any action.

In June of 1984, I wrote a letter to president of our homeowners association seeking their assistance. The president, again, expressed sympathy, however, informed me that the association would take no action.

In September of 1984, I recontacted the zoning inspector, who reiterated that as long as there was a garden, the carpeting was needed. He further stated, again, that immediately after the first frost, he could issue a violation.

In November of 1984, I, again, contacted the city inspector's office and was informed that there was a "new" inspector. I spoke with the new inspector, and he issued a violation. The violation gave the homeowner 10 days in which to correct the problem.

In December of 1984, I received a letter from the inspector indicating that pursuant to his discussion with the city attorney, the case had been dropped.

I then contacted the zoning supervisor in an attempt to determine why the city had dropped the violation, without at least waiting the 10 days and was subjected to rude, inconsiderate and unnecessary treatment. He refused to talk to me by actually stating that "I don't even want to talk to you about this situation" and literally walked away from me.

I then contacted the city manager and the city attorneys and, in short, was informed that there was no code violation and, therefore, I was without a remedy.

I ask only that all who have received copies of this letter view the attached pictures as if you were looking out of your kitchen window and this is what you saw.

Sincerely, DDD
RESOLUTION: Despite all of DDD's attempts, she was finally informed by the homeowners association that she would have to live with the problem. I saw the pictures, I would not want to live next door to this residence. At this point, all DDD can do is seek legal advice.

Gumby died last Thursday night. He will be missed. Gumby shouldn't have been born at all...but he cheated fate.

He was with us for five short weeks, and he was loved. Oh, how he was loved!

The story starts with a boy who was not doing too well in school, so he was promised a surprise, if he worked hard and tried to do his very best.

In fact, the whole family got a surprise. The person who promised the boy a surprise knew that what he wanted more than anything in the world was a puppy.

One morning, early, they set out to visit all the animal shelters. They couldn't find a puppy, but they did find a rag mop of a dog, with the saddest eyes in the world.

The card on the cage said she was a year old, housebroken and most importantly, she couldn't have babies.

End of story, right?

Wrong! The sad-eyed dog didn't want to play with the boy, didn't eat very much, just laid around and really wasn't any fun at all.

Until one night a strange thing happened. The sad-eyed dog hid under the bed and wouldn't come out. When the boy looked, he saw something wonderful. Instead of one dog, he now had six.

Everybody was happy, but as the days went by the little puppies became sick and one by one they died...until only Gumby was left.

The boy and his family watched over him and saw him grow stronger. His eyes opened and he learned to growl and play...until last Thursday night!

At the animal hospital emergency room, the people tried, but it was too late.

The disease that killed the puppies is a very common one (parvovirus), although it was not known before 1978, and it can be treated.

But what we all learned from Gumby was about life and death and facing reality. He served a purpose, and he will be remembered for a long, long time.

The following students from the Belleville area have been awarded advanced degrees from Eastern Michigan University: Pamela Bishop, MBA; Deborah J. Costa, MA; Sherry K. Hoover, MA; Frank M. Musser, MA; and Margaret D. Viogt, MA.

Recognition of Excellence Awards from EMU have been awarded to Carrie L. Cole, Laurie Duey, Tina Samsel and Dawn Twydell.

Want to take a breather and get away from it all? The YMCA Travel Days Club can take care of that. They have a 2-day trip to Ohio Oct. 2-3, which has it all—a bus ride, a train ride and a ferry boat ride.

Included in the sightseeing will be a ride through Cuyahoga Valley National Park by rail, a visit to the functioning 1800s Hale Farm and village, overnight stay at the Quaker Square Hotel, which was once the grain silos for the Quaker Oats Company in Akron, a ride on the Put-In Bay ferry, wine and cheese tasting at the Heineman Winery, Perry's Victory and Peace Memorial and a peek at Crystal Cave.

The cost, which includes two lunches, tax and tips, is $115 for members. Non-members add $10. For more information call 561-4110.

The International Student Exchange is interested in bringing young people to the United States and also placing American students overseas, so that we can learn more about each other.

Last week two visitors arrived in our area to spend a year with local families and go to school.

From Kristinehamm, Sweden, 16-year-old Susann Nilson will be living with the Paul Satlowski family and attending Belleville High School.

While over in Romulus, Lars Jensen from Copenhagen, Denmark, will be part of the Schmidt family (Donald and Deborah).

We welcome both young people and wish them well.

Rites held for Samuel Moses, businessman

Services were held Aug. 13 at St. George Syrian Orthodox Church in Detroit for Samuel A. Moses, co-founder of the Romulus-based Mo-Pel Inc., General Contractors, and Contemporary Structures Division of Mo-Pel.

Mr. Moses died Aug. 10 at Northwestern Detroit General Hospital. He was 64 at the time of his death.

Mr. Moses was co-founder, with Stanley J. Kapel, of Mo-Pel and Contemporary Structures, a contracting firm handling Stran Buildings, both located at 6999 Metroplex Drive, Romulus. He was active in both until his death.

A veteran of World War II, he graduated from Wayne State University in 1950 with a degree in civil engineering.

He was a member of the Engineering Society of Detroit, the Construction Association of Michigan, the Great Lakes Fabricators and Erectors Association, the Systems Builders Association, and the F&AM Lodge No. 566. He was former member of the Board of Directors of St. George Syrian Orthodox Church.

He is survived by his wife, Souraya; two stepdaughters, Marie Stahl and Bernadette Miller; three stepsons, Nicholas, Phillip and Dennis Nehro; two sisters, Mary Thomas and Selma Abud; three brothers, Michael, Leo and George Moses; nine grandchildren and numerous nieces and nephews.

Cancer is often curable. The fear of cancer is often fatal.

If you're afraid of cancer...you're not alone. But some people are so afraid that they won't go to the doctor when they suspect something's wrong.

They're afraid the doctor might "find something." This kind of fear can prevent them from discovering cancer in the early stages when it is most often curable.

These people run the risk of letting cancer scare them to death.

BOWIE
By Jerry Hopkins
286 pp.
Macmillan Publishing Co.

Through the years, a lot has been written about David Bowie, the chameleon of rock 'n' roll who may have single-handedly saved a whole generation of rockers from Deep Purple, the Allman Brothers and their ilk. Not much of it has been factual.

Bowie's publicity people loved playing games with the music press, telling one paper one story and a completely different one to another paper five minutes later. It was hype with a capital "H."

Jerry Hopkins has written the best book on David Bowie the man, his music and the electricity that surged Bowie and the Spiders from Mars to the top, and he does it in an engaging, always interesting way, which really isn't surprising, considering he's the best-selling author of books like "Elvis: The Final Years" and "No One Gets Out Of Here Alive," the biography of the late Jim Morrison which caused a resurgence in the sales of old Doors albums, Morrison's band.

Now, Hopkins has taken on Bowie and all of his stage personas, from Ziggy Stardust to the Thin White Duke to David Bowie, film star. With help from Bowie's associates, friends (and, of course, ex-friends) and even his mother, Hopkins has put together the ultimate biography of Bowie, at least until he decides to write his own.

Born David Jones (he changed it to stop confusion with the member of the Monkees) the book takes us through the schoolyard fight with George Underwood at the age of 16, which left Bowie with a permanently dilated pupil of his left eye. Also, because of the damage to his eyes, for reasons unknown one eye remained green and the other turned blue. It added a distinctive look to what was to be a very distinctive performer.

Hopkins tells the story of a man of mime (Bowie) who tried his hand at entertainment until it got out of control. Tony DeFries became Bowie's manager, telling the boy from Brixton that he could make him the biggest star in the field, a rock 'n' roll icon, if you will. The song says of Ziggy "He took it all to far, but boy, could he play guitar" and "When the kids had killed the man we had to break up the band." The song was, ironically, rather prophetic.

DeFries succeeded. His plan from the start was to treat Bowie as a mega-star, and others would follow. Tension eventually ended the relationship (as did a lawsuit or two). Reportedly (and anyone who saw it can testify to this), when he appeared on the Dick Cavett show in early 1975, drugs were allegedly being used excessively by Bowie, who couldn't stop tapping his cane on the floor and constantly spoke in bursts, rather than fluidly. Oh yeah, he sniffled about every five seconds and no, he didn't have a cold.

Somehow, in 286 pages, Hopkins manages to follow a path set by Bowie that started in folk ("Space Oddity"), went into the outrageous and vampish, turned quickly into Ziggy Stardust, the character from the album of the same name and settled in as a lad insane.

Hopkins did talk to David's estranged (pun intended) wife Angie, journalists Charles Shaar Murray, Cameron Crowe and Mick Watts, to whom Bowie made the statement "I'm gay, and always have been, even when I was David Jones. . . ." The next day, his name was plastered across papers and magazines around the world.

Hopkins also talked to Bowie's producers and directors from stage (he did "The Elephant Man" on Broadway to rave reviews) and films including "The Man Who Fell To Earth," "The Hunger" (with Catherine Deneuve and Susan Sarandon), "Just a Gigolo" (which failed despite a top-flight cast of Bowie, the beautiful Sydne Rome, Kim Novac and sadly, Marlene Dietrich, who was awful and should have decided to stay in retirement).

But the biggest coup for the author was an interview granted by the mother of the "Cracked Actor," Peggy Burns, where she tells of the distance between the two. "Mind you," she said, "he was very good. He sent me a mink coat, a thing I'd never 'ad before, but where do I go to wear it? No money in my pockets."

This is a fascinating glimpse into the real world of a man going from the ground level to the top and being adored by millions, how he got there and the mistakes he made. By the way, Bowie is now very straight, has custody of his and Angela's son Zowie (which he won in a court battle).

And, to his pleasure, David legally had Zowie's name changed to Joey, which no doubt delighted the 14-year-old.

Undoubtedly, fans of Bowie (who stands at the top of the Rock, sharing space only with Jagger and Springsteen) will buy this book, but its potential audience is much larger. Pretend it's a novel written by Jackie Collins. Truth is stranger than fiction.

"BOWIE," by Jerry Hopkins is currently available at Waldenbooks, newly-located inside Westland Mall.

Dear Investor in my opinion:
The Federal Reserve Board's rhetoric is generally "planned ambiguity." However, its action is becoming just as ambiguous, and in many ways confusing! The banking system has more than adequate liquidity. Since October 1984, the money supply (M-1) has grown by $56 billion and checkable deposits have grown by $46 billion.
There seems to be a reluctance by holders to go on a spending binge. Corporations seem reluctant to spend reserves, or borrow funds for expansion, new equipment, or inventory increases. The banking system cannot continue to hold large "non-productive" reserves. Banks may be forced to take a hard look at marginal risks in order to maintain their current outstanding loan base.
At this point I think the Fed policy is "non-policy." At some point, checkable deposits will start liquidating and could cause upward pressure on inflation rates. If the Feds "real" policy is to defeat inflation, they may consider restraining money growth (M-1) and accelerating the reduction in the discount rate.
For this week interest rates will be flat. Price movements in interest sensitive issues may be caused mainly by fundamental factors. Gold and silver will ease as overhead supply seems adequate to handle demand.

For this week the short-term traders will be cautiously optimistic that September will mark the resumption of the Bull Market. Intermediate term traders will use any market strength to close out positions and move to the sidelines. Long-term traders are willing buyers in secondary issues and depressed issues with good fundamentals.
For this week the market mood will be mildly optimistic as the session opens. Traders will want to be early buyers, if there is to be a "September rally." Expanding money supply (M-1) has caused some increased optimism for the economy to expand. However, what may not be apparent is a "selloff" of banking stocks. This may dampen buying enthusiasm as we near the end of this session. Secondary issues and small capitalized issues are gaining increased attention and are adding some stability to the market.
OPINION FOR SEPT. 1, 1985

The American way?

While on the surface it may appear that the primary election in the City of Westland is of no interest to those outside that community, several developments recently would seem to make the results of this balloting important to all who believe in the American political system.

That may sound somewhat melodramatic, and yet, if one were to use the methods of at least one of the mayoral candidates as an example of politics in our area, county, state and country, the result could be shame and embarrassment.

The candidate in question is the incumbent mayor, Charles Pickering, who has sent political literature into the homes of the voters he wishes to seduce filled with questionable innuendo.

He has claimed that his administration ran without budget deficits, and yet this newspaper reported on the deficits in the city budget back in December of 1982. The first year deficit of his administration, created during his tenure, exceeded $600,000.

Pickering takes accolades unto himself for the increase in commercial and industrial development when it was he who eliminated the staff of the city department responsible for this growth and stated in his campaigns that this function was a waste of money. He campaigned during his first term for the elimination of senior citizen programs and the merger of the senior program with the recreation department, while he now boasts of the construction of the new senior friendship center.

He has gone so far as to insult the intelligence of any reasonable citizen by inferring that he was involved in the razing of the Eloise facility, clearly a function of Wayne County with no connection to his administration or the city government whatsoever.

The carefully structured references and list of "accomplishments" in his literature continues. He has reportedly told some citizens that while he is aware of his lack of any real involvement in many of the progressive steps the city may have made during his administration, since they occurred while he was in office, he will take credit for them.

Much has been written about the wonderful world of politics and how "all is fair." It is with dismay that we observe such an apparent disregard for the truth.

Nearly all candidates take political license with the facts to manipulate voters. Pickering, however, has stepped over the bounds of normal political rhetoric and into the realm of fiction. As this is the second campaign wherein Pickering has played the voters for fools, his tactics can no longer be excused nor tolerated, particularly in light of his poor performance in serving those who chose to elect him.

There is a huge difference between a mistake or typographical error on campaign literature such as Charles (Trav) Griffin's printer leaving the words "candidate for" off the title, mayor, under his name. Griffin appeared truly surprised and contrite when informed of the error--and attempted to retrieve as much of the offending literature as possible. Others, too, have made mistakes, have presented their credentials cadged in euphemistic terms to make them seem at their best. That is politics and the voter expects it. What we shouldn't expect and shouldn't tolerate are outright lies.

Pickering claims that the average Westland resident pays fewer real estate taxes than four years ago. He doesn't reveal his proposals for a millage increase during his first three years in office.

The majority of the statements in Pickering's literature are based in truth--but the whole truth is not there. To boast of the accomplishments during a political term is certainly fair--but to imply cooperation and support in those projects when they were opposed and fought against is unfair to the voter.

We would hope that the people of Westland would remember the numerous accounts of the mayoral and council battles which were reported on our pages during the years--many concerning the issues Pickering now refers to in his efforts to woo voters.

Citizens throughout the area would do well to take heed of the results of the upcoming Westland elections, and to carefully examine the political literature which will eventually arrive on their doorsteps. Each piece should be read with a practiced and jaded eye watching for the truth and the careful omission of same.

Politics are a reflection of the people...and the voters usually get the leaders they deserve. That is, truly, the American way.

Journey of the spirit

In 1979, I received a phone call from Congressman William Ford's office asking if I would consider being Bill's appointed delegate to a conference proposed by President Jimmy Carter which would deal with the problems of small business. The conference was scheduled for early in 1980.

That was the beginning of a journey that has lasted six years and continues to this day. Along the way I have learned many things, made new friends and most of all developed an understanding of and respect for those people we refer to when we speak of small business.

In 1980, after an endless variety of organizational and planning meetings and discussion, the small business conference took place. Nearly 2,000 delegates from across America came together in an awesome display of wisdom, anger, frustration and sheer brilliance.

Today our country is and has been witnessing the rebirth of a spirit that was in danger of extinction. What brought us back from the precipice in 1980 wasn't the conference itself although it played a major role. What happened there was an awakening...almost like the spirit that moves in your heart at a tent-revival meeting. You know something is taking place, you want to be part of it, be touched by it, see it grow, see it touch others and bring you together in a common bond.

As I write, hundreds of thousands have heard the call. No longer do they rely on the mercy of big business and big government to do everything for them, becoming despondent when they don't. Today we know the promise of tomorrow lies with you and me, the little guys, who cannot move the mountain of bureaucracy, complacency and regulatory nonsense. Together we can and have brought about change and that change will foster and trigger a new faith in "possibilities."

It is possible to start your own business and make a good life for yourself, your family and for those individuals and their families who come to derive their livelihood as a result of your courage and willingness to take a chance. It is also possible, armed with an idea that will work to amass a fortune, no matter what your station in life.

Heinz Prechter, a man I have never met but with whom I share a dream, recently purchased the SEM Newspaper chain from John McGoff. Those six newspapers have a combined circulation of approximately 140,000. This relatively young man of 43 founded his dream with the American Sunroof Company as an immigrant from Germany, like my great-grandfather, Prechter built a fortune from nothing. His financial empire now includes automobile dealerships, a motel, Sun Roof, and now, media.

Prechter's reputation is that of a man who gives back to the community in which he lives and works and that has helped to make him what he is today. He is a shining example of what America is all about, and what small business in America can and should be.

A meeting will take place at the Dearborn Hyatt Regency Hotel at 8:30 a.m. Sept. 20. During this meeting, delegates to the second White House Conference on Small Business will be elected. Of the number who run and are chosen, all must agree to attend the Washington Conference scheduled for Aug. 17-21 of next year at their own expense.

In Washington, delegates armed with platforms hammered out in planning sessions will argue, lobby, discuss and then vote on the recommendations to be submitted to the President and Congress.

Will it make any difference or impact on the government, its policies, laws and regulations? Can we change that which holds us back as small businessmen? Can we implement change that will result in a stronger economy, a better place to do business, start a business, create jobs and bring about a stronger America?

That's easy! Yes, we can! Our past accomplishments would fill another four columns.

Our endorsements

Voters will go to the polls in Westland next Tuesday to select the field of candidates who will vie for political office in the Nov. 5 general election.

Presently, four mayoral candidates are hoping to curry voters' favor in this preliminary vote, while 11 others hope to fill the council positions which expire this year. This election will reduce the field to two mayoral candidates and eight council hopefuls.

This is, as is every election, a crucial process for the people of the community. Westland city administration has been in a state of turmoil for nearly four years now. Week after week the arguments and quarrels regarding official duties and responsibilities has continued. The animosity which exists between the members of the city council and the incumbent mayor is public knowledge and has been the subject of litigation. The day-to-day administration of the city and the formulation of policy and procedure at the council level have been bogged down with the constant quarrels, bickering, lack of cooperation and positioning for power which preoccupies even those of pure heart involved in the present administration.

The question of authority and power has apparently obsessed the present administration. Any thought of a continuance of such an arrangement is an exercise in futility and counterproductive. If the welfare of the city and the citizens is to be considered as the criteria for endorsement of political office or as a measure of the worth of each candidate, there must be a recognition of the present administrative culpability in the ongoing drama which has preoccupied the city during these past years.

It is time for the citizens of Westland to send a strong and sincere message to those who seek to fill elected positions in the administration of their city. That message must be that no more of the self-serving, aggrandizing politics will be tolerated in their town and that they are well aware of the manipulations and power struggle that have mired their city in disorganization and inefficiency.

With these thoughts we have carefully chosen those whom we would select as suitable candidates for office in the City of Westland. We are fully prepared for the uproar that may greet many of the choices we have made, but it must be clear that these candidates represent the best chance, in our opinion, of returning the City of Westland to a position of dignity and integrity in the area.

In the mayoral race, we have chosen CHARLES (Trav) GRIFFIN and ROBERT WAGNER. These are two experienced politicians who have weathered the political machinations of the present administration without any apparent lessening of their desire to serve the constituents in the most efficient manner possible. Both of these men would appear to be qualified to be mayor of Westland.

Our choices for council are KENNETH MEHL, A. KENT HERBERT, PATRICK DANA, HENRY JOHNSON, CHUCK MENZIES, DONALD RUSNOCK, ETHEL BOLLINGER and WILLIAM ZIEMBA.

While each of these candidates was selected on the basis of their individual merits, it is obvious that Mehl and Herbert were selected on the basis of their past performance on the council and their reactions to the stress of the past years. The remaining candidates each have something to offer the Westland citizens, as did those who did not receive our sanction.

In our opinion, this slate of candidates would offer the City of Westland something it has not had in a long while, a chance for responsible, cooperative government which serves the people.

Wayne toddler survives accident

Coping with a heavy cast from hip to toes is no pleasure at any age, but tiny Julia Hull is weathering the ordeal with the courage of a real winner.

The 22-month-old was injured recently when she wandered just off the edge of her parents' Harroun Street home in Wayne and was struck by a car backing down the driveway. As her horrified parents watched from only a few feet away, she was knocked to the ground and run over by the rear wheel of a Lincoln Town Car. According to her father, John F. Hull, Jr., he had to get the driver, who was dumbstruck at the incident, back into the car to get the wheels off the baby's back. "We were so scared--so scared," Hull said, "and the doctors worried about brain damage as all the blood vessels in her face exploded from the pressure." Julia, however, surprised everyone and with her transfer from Westland Medical Center to C. S. Mott Children's Hospital where brain scans and complete medical examinations were performed, she proved that her most serious problem was her broken leg.

Her father explained that

doctors have predicted that the toddler will have to endure the body cast, which prevents her from sitting, for nearly three months, but that medical experts are hopeful that there will be no permanent damage from her injuries.
"It was just such a strange thing," Hull said. "We don't let her out of our sight. The man who was driving the car had just stopped to pick up a vase for flowers for his wife, who had just had a baby that day.
Julia's only comment regarding the accident, her injuries or her medical progress was succinct, "Bye-bye."

New Japanese 'Super Pill' Insures Rapid Weight-Loss

No Dieting — Eat All You Want, Pill Does All The Work

BEVERLY HILLS, CA — An exciting new "all natural" weight-loss "Super" Pill developed by the JMA (Japanese Medical Association) has just been approved for distribution in the United States. Reportedly, it can guarantee that you will lose more than a pound a day without dieting, from the very first day until you reach your ideal weight and figure. News of this "Super Pill" is literally sweeping the country. It's called Amitol and there has never been anything quite like it before.

"Flushes Calories Right Out Of Your Body"

What makes Amitol so thrilling and unique is its reported ability to flush calories right out of your body. Amitol is completely safe, it contains no drugs whatsoever. Its ingredients are derived solely from the Konjac root which grows primarily in Northern Japan.

Why the Konjac root? It has been used in Japan for over 1600 years to produce rapid and natural weight-loss!

Japanese studies verify that Konjac root actually prevents fat producing calories from being absorbed into your system. They say it does this by surrounding much of the fats, proteins and carbohydrates you have eaten with a protective viscous coating which is then gently flushed out of your system. And according to Japanese research this produces absolutely amazing results.

And who can disagree! Amitol (although brand new to this country) is already being called by many people, "the most exciting weight-loss breakthrough of the century." In fact, everywhere there are reports of easy and fast weight-loss from formerly overweight people (in all walks of life) who are now slim, trim, and attractive again.

Company Offers Extraordinary Guarantee

You now can purchase Amitol direct from the North American distributor, and it comes with an extraordinary guarantee.

If you place your order now and then follow the simple instructions for a period of 30 days, you must be completely satisfied with the dramatic visible results or just return the empty container and Dyna Labs will immediately send back your entire purchase price. This guarantee applies regardless of your age or current weight level. What could be better than that! It's just that simple. If you've tried to lose weight before and failed you no longer have an excuse. Amitol is available, it's easy and it works without dieting!

Best of all, ordering Amitol is simple, fast, and reliable! Simply call Dyna Labs Toll Free: (1-800-441-5454) Ext. 911, and order with your credit card. If you don't have a credit card Dyna Labs will also accept C.O.D. orders right over the phone! All orders are shipped immediately by UPS, which means no delay and no orders lost in the mail!

$19.95—30 day supply, or $35.95—60 day supply. Operators are standing by and will be glad to take your order. You can order 24 hrs. a day, 7 days a week! Please don't wait to call. You really do deserve to be thin!

"When will Sally be home from cheerleading practice?"
"I've got football; I'll catch something later."
"Working late at the office; I'll send down for a sandwich."
Sound familiar?
Now that fall has arrived, school has begun, and the days are getting shorter (nothing like pushing it, eh?), we will be finding ourselves a little too busy, tired or just plain frantic to eat right and healthy.

Since this writer has yet to win the Lotto jackpot and hire Jimmy Schmidt back to Detroit for his own personal "chef de la maison," I have created some great "get throughs" to help the single diner "get through" dinnertime.

Now, this is not to dispel the fact that great, old time family-style dinner with meat, potatoes and mom's homemade apple pie is going the route of 10-cent ice cream cones and $75 per month car payments. (Actually, mom's apple pie was family-rated "so-so," but could she whip up an outlandish strawberry shortcake!)

Of course, today's families are on the go more; they have to be in order to keep up with the mortgage payments. This article and attached recipes can be utilized not just by the lonely diner, but also for our senior who still get a throbbing heart by shuffling a few pots and pans around the stove top.

I received a letter last week from a reader, who was afraid that her son, leaving for college the next day, would eat right while on his first excursion from home. I'm sure that under the 12 pairs of clean underwear, mom tucked in a couple dozen chocolate chip cookies and with a little luck (and money) she can make sure his culinary disposition does not get carried away in PolySci 101 by transporting a few "doggy bags" of Johnny's favorite meatloaf, chicken pot pie and struesel every week or so via Federal Express.

Not to fret, mom and I had a discussion last week with the director of food services from a major mid-Michigan college and was assured that all of your Tommies, Susies, Jimmies and Saras are eating to their hearts content on such yummy entrees as "Mom's Meat on a Stick" (shish-kabob) and Grandma's Bars (chocolate chip bar cookies) that even Brooke Shields would enjoy at Yale (or was it Harvard?).

Bon Appetite!

COOKING FOR ONE OR TWO FRENCH ONION SOUP AU GRATIN

Conference planners

The planning committee of this fall's second Women's Health Day conference, co-sponsored by Oakwood Hospital, Dearborn, and Blue Cross Blue Shield of Michigan has announced that author Jane Brody, nationally-known health and nutrition writer for the New York Times, will be the featured speaker. The conference, entitled "Be the Best You Can Be," will be presented Thursday, Oct. 24, at the Dearborn Hyatt Regency from 1 to 9 p.m. The conference will feature speakers on such topics as stress management, sexuality, nutrition, mid-life changes, and pregnancy. Program planner Jane Sundmacher (far left) of Northville, health educator, Oakwood's Department of Community Health and Health Education, joins committee members (from left to right) Marion Corwell of Huron Township, communications planning associate, Ford Motor Co.; Marge

Powell of Dearborn, immediate past president, Dearborn City Council, and committee chairwoman; Mae Dardarian of Birmingham, former director of public relations, United Community Services of Metropolitan Detroit; and Ruth Cain of Grosse Pointe, media relations coordinator, Blue Cross Blue Shield of Michigan. The registration fee is $27. For information, call 593-7205.

PCHA founder, Ken Gremore, dead at 62

Ken Gremore, one of the architects of the Peoples Community Hospital Authority, who spent his last years attempting to dismantle the hospital chain died recently after a long battle with cancer.

Mr. Gremore, 62, helped build the hospital chain into one of the best in the nation and served as its director before he was released from his duties after being accused of misuse of funds. The allegations didn't

Mr. Gremore served as executive director of the PCHA from 1947 until 1966, when he resigned under fire for alleged embezzlement, a charge for which he was never convicted. During his tenure the PCHA constructed Seaway Hospital in Trenton, Outer Drive Hospital in Lincoln Park and Annapolis Hospital in Wayne. The chain also includes Beyer Hospital in Ypsilanti, and Heritage in Taylor. PCHA is a consortium of 24 municipalities, in-

"He was a staunch fighter as he proved as a pilot during World War II and when he took over the hospital authority Ken showed the same kind of aggressiveness. Sure he made enemies, but anyone in the public arena does. But he did this area a lot of good," a friend said.

Mr. Gremore was a native of Crystal Falls and became a military pilot on the eve of World War II. He was at Pearl Harbor on that infamous Sunday, Dec. 7, 1941, when the Imperial Japanese Navy and Air Force struck Hawaii, which brought United States into the war.

Mr. Gremore recently became a consultant for the Hospital Corporation of America (HCA) of Nashville. Earlier this year he unsuccessfully tried to convince PCHA's board of directors that it would be in the best interests of the member communities if the PCHA would be sold to HCA. The sale would release taxpayers from the burden of paying the .2-mile tax.

Mr. Gremore is survived by his wife, Dora Lee, daughters Pamela Finley and Sherry Johnson; four sisters; three brothers and three grandchildren.

Services were conducted Aug. 24 for Mr. Gremore at the Nixon-Weise Funeral Home in Lincoln Park.

Melt down . . . weapons destroyed

By ROSE MARY REIZ
ANP Staff Writer

More than 200 guns used in Westland crimes over the last three years will this month be reduced to harmless chunks of lead.

"After we take this batch of guns to the Michigan State Police post in Lansing to be melted down, they'll become istered to Westland residents. Last year alone, 707 guns were registered in the city.

Although some who request gun permits are hunters or gun collectors, Craft said that an increasingly large number of those who want to register handguns are homeowners seeking protection.

"I get a lot of calls from has ever prevented a crime," Craft said.

Plenty, however, have been used to commit them. Some more than once.

"The percentage of registered guns used in crimes would be less," Craft insisted, "if some of those charged with crimes had been convicted on the original offenses instead of plea bargaining down to lesser charges.

"I get people in here wanting their guns back who I know we've had in on felony charges," Craft said. "I'll think to myself, 'Here's a guy who doesn't need a gun,' but I've got to do what the courts say and give it to him, anyway.

"I also think the laws are failing people by not requiring that those who register a gun first pass a safety test and prove they know how to handle it properly," he added.

In accordance with court orders, a list of the confiscated weapons has been sent to the Michigan State Gun File, where each weapon is run through a computer to clear its owner's name.

The guns will be transported to Lansing, where they will be melted in a furnace and recycled as lead.

"People might feel secure with a gun in the home, but offhand, I can't document a single case where one of those 15,000 registered guns ever prevented a crime."

paperweights on somebody's desk," Westland Police Lt. Wayne Craft said. "Frankly, I'd like to see plenty more of them used for paperweights."

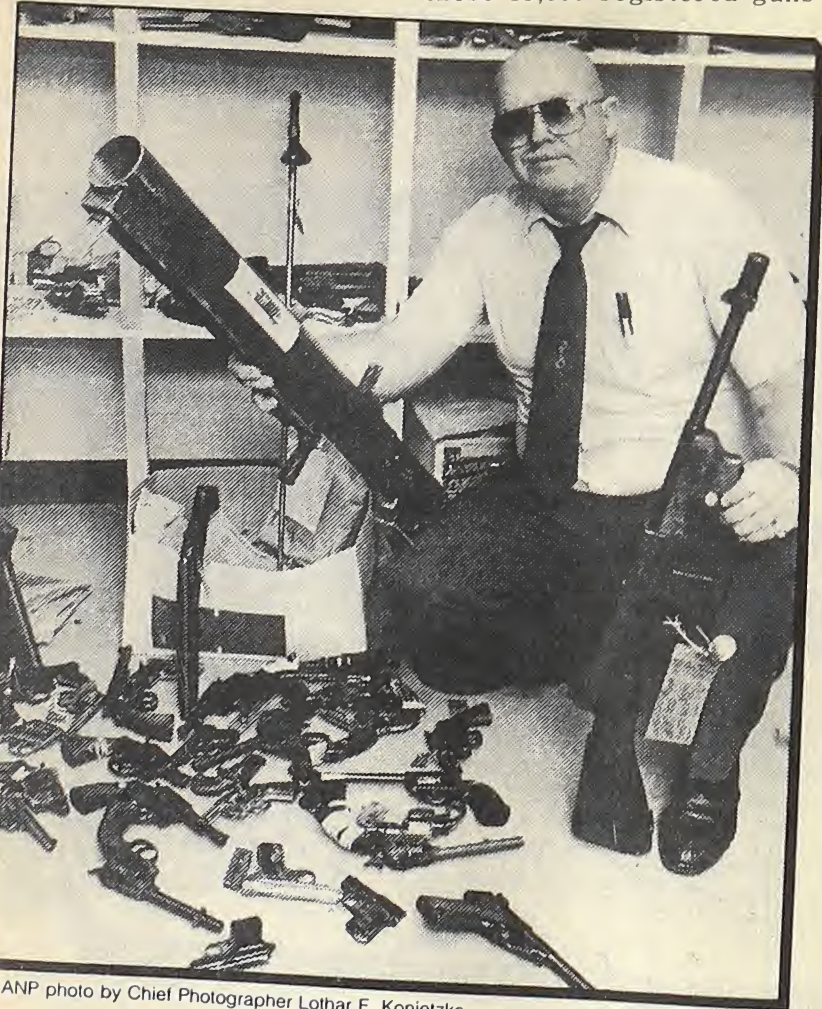

The weapons, confiscated by Westland police following burglaries, robberies, felonies and murders, range from small "Saturday night specials" to sub-machine guns.

"Unfortunately, guns in Westland are as popular as America and apple pie," said Craft, who estimated that there are close to 15,000 guns reg-women who want to know what the best type of gun for protection is, and where they can learn to shoot," Craft said.

According to the lieutenant, although many people seek guns for protection, chances are greater that the weapon will be stolen from or used against its owner in a home robbery situation.

"People might feel secure with a gun in the home, but offhand, I can't document a single case where even one of those 15,000 registered guns

Polzin -Sieben exchange vows

St. Anthony's Catholic Church in Belleville provided the setting for the July 20 nuptials of Gloria Polzin and Glenn Sieben.

The bride is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Russell VanBuhler. The groom is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Sieben of Cente, Minnesota.

Music for the double-ring ceremony was by Joan VanBuhler, niece of the bride, who played the guitar and sang.

The bride chose a street-length cream lace dress, with gathered waistline and pink silk sash, a scalloped boat neckline and hem and short sleeves, for the late morning ceremony. Her bouquet was of miniature pink roses and pink carnations. Belleville, her sister, to serve as her honor attendant. She wore a lavender street-length dress with long sleeves and pleated skirt.

The groom asked Bud Hoeft, brother-in-law of the bride, to perform the duties of best man.

A breakfast, held at Mr. Steak in Canton Township for the newlyweds and their immediate family preceded a 2-week honeymoon trip to Toronto, Ontario, Canada.

A reception, given by the couple's children, was held on Aug. 3 for the newlyweds and 60 guests at the VFW Hall in Belleville. The hall was decorated with pink and white roses and carnations, which also topped a 3-tiered, heart-shaped wedding cake made as a gift to the couple by Mr. and Mrs. James Schwalm of Livonia, their in-laws.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Sieben

The couple is residing in Belleville, while the groom continues his work as a sales engineer at Hennells Inc. in Fern-dale.

From suffrage to the gender gap . . .

By Linda St. Thomas
Smithsonian News Service

When women "got the vote" in 1920, some people predicted—and feared—the end of femininity and the beginning of unneeded social reform and elections determined by an unpredictable but solid bloc of women's votes.

The predictions did not come true. In fact, the elections following passage of the suffrage amendment were anticlimactic compared to the years of intense effort to win the vote. In the 1924 election, only one-third of the women eligible to vote cast their ballots. As late as 1960, the voter turnout rate for women was still 11 percentage points behind the rate for men. Moreover, it appeared that the way women voted was indistinguishable from the way men voted.

Today, 65 years after women began voting (the 19th Amendment to the Constitution became law on Aug. 26, 1920), political historians talk matter-of-factly about gender gaps, women's issues, the feminist vote and the impact of a female vice-presidential candidate of an election. In 1980, for the first time in history, the proportion of women who reported voting (59.4 percent) was higher than that of men (59.1 percent).

When the 1980 and 1984 elections returns were examined, pollsters took note of the long-awaited difference in men's and women's votes in presidential, state and local races and labeled that difference the "gender gap."

The term may be new, but the phenomenon has been developing for some time, says Marjorie Lansing, co-author of "Women and Politics: The Visible Majority." Within the past decade or so, Lansing says, the women's movement has been accompanied by the "growth of an invisible majority (formed by women) in the electorate which has coalesced at times to influence public policy."

Ethel Klein, a political scientist at Columbia University and author of "Gender Politics," says that "even when men and women vote for the same candidate, a women's vote exists so long as women vote for that candidate for different reasons." If, for example, women vote for a Democrat because of the party's position on social services or defense spending, while men vote for the same candidate because of unemployment and labor issues, Klein contends, there is "a women's vote irrespective of the fact that both men and women voted for the Democrat."

In several 1984 state elections the gender gap was more pronounced than in the landslide presidential election, according to data compiled by the Center for the American Woman and Politics at Rutgers University. Women's participation, in fact, determined the outcome of races in Illinois, Michigan, Massachusetts and Iowa. (Since ballots are anonymous, information on how men and women vote comes from exit poll interviews and opinion surveys conducted by major national news organizations.)

The journey to the gender gap was long and difficult. Officially, it began with a 1848 Seneca Falls (N.Y.) convention, which resolved "that it is the duty of the women of this country to secure for themselves their sacred right to the elective franchise." But women's interest and involvement in elections goes back to the first presidential campaigns, when women worked behind the scenes, organizing political meetings and luncheons, making campaign items and attending rallies.

Some 19th-century election objects were made by women and others aimed at women, but all had a distinct "home" appeal—sewing boxes, ceramic tableware, quilts and pendants. The thinking at the time was that "women could influence the votes of their husbands and sons even though the women themselves could not go to the polls," Edith Mayo, political history curator at the Smithsonian Museum, says. "Ironically, political activities and party affiliations were considered family affairs."

After the first 15 presidential elections, some women were ready to progress from influencing male voters to voting themselves. Thus began the decades-long suffrage movement in America.

Organized efforts to secure the vote for women began in 1867 with a state referendum in Kansas. It failed. But in 1869, Wyoming became the first state to enfranchise women and two national suffrage associations were formed, later merging under President Susan B. Anthony to become the National American Woman's Suffrage Association.

Universal suffrage, many women hoped, would become a reality through victory state by state. And so, according to records kept by suffrage leader Carrie Chapman Catt, there were 47 campaigns to convince state constitutional conventions to write suffrage into their constitutions, 277 campaigns to adopt suffrage in state party platforms and 480 efforts to ask state legislatures to submit suffrage amendments to their voters. By 1913, nine states, all west of the Mississippi, had enfranchised women.

Confronted in 1916 with seemingly endless stalemate and questionable vote recounts in some states, historian Eleanor Flexner explains in her book, "Century of Struggle," "the eyes of more and more suffragists began turning to Washington, where in the nation's capitol, a new suffrage venture was under way."

That year, 5,000 NAWSA members lobbied the Republican Convention to get suffrage on the platform. Meanwhile, suffragists continued to "work on" Congress, although interest in the federal suffrage amendment was at an all-time low, Flexner, says.

The opposition that confronted the suffragists on both state and national fronts was formidable: political parties that could not be sure of winning, if women were enfranchised, big-city political machines suspicious of women's desires to "clean up" politics, brewery and liquor lobbies concerned that women voters would support prohibition, wealthy "antis" (as suffrage opponents were called) who argued that voting would place a burden on women whose place was in the home, and Southern politicians who did not want newly-enfranchised women calling attention to their racially discriminatory voting policies. And there was the psychological barrier, Mayo adds, of a society "based on women in private rather than public roles."

Despite the obstacles, the movement steadily gained ground. NAWSA launched an aggressive new strategy (Mrs. Catt's "Winning Plan"), the role of women changed as millions entered the work force during World War I and, gradually, both men and women came to believe in the equity of a democracy, which allowed all citizens to vote.

In addition, suffrage activities were becoming more visible to the public. Newspapers of the day were saturated with suffrage stories. Parades, conventions, auto pilgrimages and pickets were organized by both factions of the movement – the mainstream NAWSA and the National Woman's Party, an activist group headed by Alice Paul, a social worker and suffragist who had been trained in the militant British women's movement.

In 1917, the first suffrage pickets, organized by the Woman's Party, stood silently outside the White House gates with banners asking Woodrow Wilson, "Mr. President, What Will You Do for Woman Suffrage?"

It was the first time any group had picketed the White House, and crowd reactions ranged from curiosity to sympathy. However, as the nation entered World War I and as the suffragists' signs grew bolder and were perceived as unpatriotic, onlookers became violent. Although the women were not the perpetrators of this violence, they were the ones who were arrested – and jailed. By the year's end, 97 women were serving terms of up to six months. The charge: obstructing sidewalk traffic.

to the movement's success, had granted "full suffrage" (as opposed to presidential suffrage). In May 1919, Congress passed the suffrage amendment and it was then ratified by the states. In August 1920, the amendment became law, 26 million women became voters and the NAWSA was renamed the League of Women Voters. Thus ended a 72-year effort and began a new women's battle, as Carrie Chapman Catt put it, for entry through the "locked door" of political parties. "If you really want your vote to count," Catt told suffragists in 1920, "make your way there."

Parent protests sudden rules' change

By ROSE MARY REIZ
ANP Staff Writer

Youngsters who joined the Wayne-Ford Civic League to increase their athletic skills may have also learned a rude lesson about the world of adult politics.

"We went out on the field this summer to try to teach kids about sportsmanship and the importance of playing by the rules," coach Michael Carmendy explained. "What they ended up learning is that whoever's got the power can change the rules."

Carmendy coached a boys' baseball team of 11- and 12-year-olds at the Wayne-Ford league in Westland this summer and his team, the Senators, came from a second-place division standing to win the league playoffs this month.

According to the coach, the young playoff winners were happily looking forward to accepting their individual trophies at the league banquet when their dreams were shattered by an abrupt change of policy.

Although 1985 Bronco AA rules state that "League champions will be the playoff winners," complaints voiced by the coach of the first-place team led to a meeting between coaches and athletic directors.

"During that meeting, Marion Greenfield, the league president, walked in to get her son to help her with a Bingo game," Carmendy recalled. "Without having been present for the discussion, she tossed the rules on the floor, said the trophy would go to the first-place team, and walked out."

According to Carmendy, complaints from angry parents failed to get the president to change her decision.

"One week before the banquet, I had to call 15 kids and tell each one that they weren't getting a trophy after all," the coach said. "Some of them started crying."

Four other teams were also affected by Greenfield's decision, Carmendy said, as each trophy was awarded to first place, rather than playoff winners.

While angry parents picketed during the league banquet,

"The understanding was that only the first-place teams would get trophies – apparently everyone understood that except the Bronco AA Division."

— Marion Greenfield

Greenfield insisted that efforts were made to correct misunderstandings.

"Yes, there were problems with the program this year, but I have nine kids of my own, and there's no way I'd intentionally hurt kids," Greenfield said of the trophy mix-up.

"The understanding was that only the first-place teams would get trophies – apparently everyone understood that except the Bronco AA Division," the president said.

Once aware of the discrepancy in the rules, Greenfield said she asked for a list of the playoff team members and ordered new trophies, which are sitting in her office.

"The coach hasn't responded to pick up the trophies, and I think there's been too much emphasis on who wins trophies, anyway," Greenfield said. "I had six sons play here in the past, and their memories are not of trophies, but of the experiences they gained."

"With an operation of this size, it's impossible to keep everyone happy, but I think we did very well overall," the president added.

Next year, Greenfield said, an effort will be made to increase rule uniformity and communication with parents, who will receive copies of league rules at the season's outset.

In the meantime, Carmendy and other parents have filed a small claims suit to retrieve a $25 per player league registration fee, a move the coach said makes a statement about fair play.

"It's the kids and the principle of this thing that most important," Carmendy explained. "I'd like to see the league admit they violated their own rules. That way, maybe the kids could still learning something good from all of this."

Michigan Bell 'weaves' new network

Michigan Bell this year will spend more than half of its $455 million 1985 construction budget to weave a network of the most advanced digital and fibric optic technology.

For the West area, Carlene Mitchell, local affairs manager for Michigan Bell, said $919,999 of the company's construction budget will be spent so that the company can continue to offer a full range of services—voice, data and video. Of the total, $595,000 will be spent for central office equipment and $324,000 for outside facilities.

"Today, there's a demand for telecommunications services that only a few years ago were simply dreams on drawing boards," Mitchell said. "There's stiff competition for these services, and we intend to continue our leadership in the field by investing in digital equipment and fiber optics to meet our customer's needs."

The company's investment in new telecommunications facilities also supports an intensive State of Michigan effort to attract new business and industry and encourage expansion of Michigan-based business.

"One key element to the success of such an effort is a modern telecommunications system capable of handling any communications demands business and industry may have," Mitchell said. "Our nearly half-billion dollar investment is solid proof of our continuing commitment to meeting those demands."

This year, the company expects to spend $46 million on fiber optic technology – cable containing hair-thin strands of glass fiber capable of transmitting voice, data and video many times faster and more accurately than conventional copper wire. This year's investment is almost four times the amount spent last year.

The largest single statewide project in 1985 is the construction of a fiber route stretching 105 miles between Grand Rapids and Cadillac. This project – the first leg of a 225-mile digital transmission corridor – is scheduled for completion by first quarter 1986 at an estimated cost of $6.9 million.

Last January, the company completed the first phase of the route, connecting Detroit to Pontiac, via Royal Oak. By year-end, Michigan Bell's first inter-city fiber optic loop will be extended to Southfield and Warren, providing facilities to serve the entire Detroit metro area.

New digital electronics facilities will be added in 1985. Nine advanced call switching machines will bring the company total to 26 by the end of the year.

By December 1985 Michigan Bell will spend $26.6 millions to convert an additional 61 central offices to equal access, bringing the total number of customer lines for "Dial 1 Plus" long distance dialing to 1.7 million.

Dial 1 Plus enables customers to use any long distance company providing the service in their area by dialing "1" plus the area code plus the telephone number. As of June 1, nearly 500,000 customers in 11 communities have been offered the service.

Barking up the right tree

Westland dog food celebrates success

By SUE McDONALD
ANP Editor

It started out with raising field trial beagles and experimenting with various mixes of dog food to keep those beagles in top competitive form.

A lot of motivation and plenty of farsightedness have resulted in Michigan's largest private brand of dog food, a fast growing wholesaler business and a string of five retail stores in the Detroit Metropolitan area.

The Westland Dog Food Company was the brain child of Louis Fourment 17 years ago. It basically started out of the back end of a semi-truck. With a lot of family involvement and Fourment's "exceptional motivation"—"he wouldn't let it fail," according to son Steve, Westland Dog Food has eight different mixes of dog food, ranging from low fat to high stress, for puppies to older dogs. The retail stores also feature a wide variety of supplies for other common pets—turtles, rabbits, birds, cats, gerbils and hamsters and the like, except fish—plus it recently began carrying the Purina Dog Food line as a distributor for that product and Kal-Kan foods. In addition to pet foods, you'll find pet vitamins, shampoos, leashes, collars, toys, cages, dog houses, baled straw, even pet-related key chains.

Steve Fourment admits that it took awhile to get people interested in Westland Dog Food, to counteract the idea that the family spent its nights "mixing up dog food in the basement." Once over that hurdle, the business took off.

"It wasn't an overnight success," he explained. "Once people found out we offered discount prices on stuff that compared to or was better than the national brands it took off."

"It's now the largest private label in Michigan, but until we got people familiar with our products and gained their confidence...that was the biggest hurdle."

The new Westland store came about because of the lack of space to expand the product line, Fourment said, adding that the old building "had seen its day."

"The new store is four times larger, and we've already outgrown it," he said.

The grand re-opening will include a variety of specials on products sold at the the store, as well as a ribbon cutting ceremony with the mayor of Westland at 2 p.m. Sept. 7. There will be pet-related door prizes and soft drinks and refreshments provided throughout the weekend, according to Fourment.

Two of the old store's permanent fixtures, Jake and Jennifer the cats, will also be roaming around to greet visitors. They've been residents of the Westland store for eight years and many times could be found snoozing on a stack of dog food bags or ambling across the counter to say hello to the customers.

Another fixture at the Westland store is Steve's mother, Betty, whom he credits with getting the business going.

"I attribute most of the foundation of the business to her," Steve explained. "She has a bubbly personality and people like to talk to her. That helped getting the business started initially."

Westland Dog Food's growth in the future will be concentrated in its wholesaler subsidiary, according to Fourment.

the company's chief operating officer—it soon moved into its first store, a small red building on Ford Road in Westland. That red building is no more, razed to make way for a larger store that will celebrate its grand re-opening Sept. 6-7.

Fourment started out with Peppy Dog Food. Once the family-owned business got a hold on the dog food market, it switched to its own brand, Westland Dog Food, named for the city where the first store was opened.

As the business grew, so did the number of retail outlets. Before long, Westland Dog Food Stores were opening in Southgate, Redford, Melvindale and Wayne.

In addition, Fourment struck out in the wholesale business and now markets his dog food, manufactured by International Multi-Foods in Minneapolis, known for its Robin Hood flour, to 60 pet supply stores throughout southeastern Michigan and Ohio. Westland Dog Food is available as far north as Lansing and Mt. Pleasant and as far south as Toledo, Ohio.

Bombs away

The 1985 high school football season gets underway Friday night and Belleville has the dubious honor of testing talent-loaded Westland John Glenn. Glenn is considered the power-to-be in the area and could be the Class A team to beat in the state if all pieces fall into place for Coach Chuck Gordon and his Rockets. Also of local interest will be the coaching debut of Chuck Howton, who replaces Floyd Carter at the helm of the Wayne Memorial grid machine. The Zebras travel to Garden City Friday night for their first test.

out 5-9, 160-pound, Jim Bailey, for the job, however.

Yauck is looking at Mark Cook, a 5-10, 220-pound athlete for the starting center post while another transfer student, Calvin Carter, 6-2, 225-pounds, is eyeing one of the tackle slots. A gifted athlete, T.J. Armstrong, who stands 6-4, 185 pounds has the tight end position. "I expect some good things from this player," Yauck notes. He also pointed out that junior, 6-0, 177-pound Ira Parker is being groomed as a tight end.

Other Bulldog notables are: Roger Porter, a tackle who is 6-2, 236-pounds and up from the reserves; freshman Dennis Robson, 6-0, 280 (that's right 280) who can run with the best of them. Robson will nail down one of the tackle slots. Kenny Woods, a 5-8, 175-pound guard, and David Livingston, also a guard at 5-11, 180, are starting candidates.

Look for Gordon

McDuff, an outstanding hitter, to play at strong safety and Clint McDaniel, a 5-9, 150 pound speedster at one of the cornerback slots while Jackson will be at the strong cornerback slot.

Although Robichaud is in a rebuilding situation, Yauck admits that the mortar is there for building another title contender. Look for Robichaud to fin-high school football," O'Neill believes that the first three games will provide him and his staff an excellent indication of what to expect this season. After Friday's encounter with John Glenn, the Tigers will open the Wolverine 'A'Conference phase of the season on Sept. 13 at home to Trenton, a team that made the playoffs a year ago, and take on Monroe, Sept. 20. The Trojans always field title contenders.

In the meantime Wayne Memorial will travel to Garden City Friday night where Chuck Howton will make his coaching debut as Wayne's head coach. Howton replaces Floyd Carter who resigned after serving as the Zebra grid strategist for 13 years.

In other key games, Romulus is at home to Willow Run Friday night. (The Eagles play home games at the junior high school, 37300 Wick Road).

"I'm looking forward to a good contest against Willow Run," said Norb Glover who is entering his fourth season as head coach. "Willow Run always fields a competitive team, but I believe we can stay with them if we can complete 70 percent of our passes."

Softball teams bow out with playoff titles

Powered by a pair of homer runs by Dan Thomas, Ed's Hangar Lounge blanked The Family 12-0 to claim the Romulus Parks and Recreation Division II playoff championship last week.

Thomas, who had three hits, accounted for four runs batted in. Teammate Rog Cripps contributed two hits.

The Family collected a total of three hits, two by Bill Parraghi, and the other off the bat of Dale Guarther.

Earlier, The Family erupted for four runs in the first inning and went on to defeat Environ, 9-3, in their playoff battle. Rich Ivan belted a pair of doubles and a triple to lead the winners. Larry Farr chipped in two singles to help Kevin Carpio post the win. Rick Mende was the losing pitcher. He had a single and double, while Don Snell checked in with a couple of hits for the losers.

Ed's Hangar won a slugfest from Environ, 19-18, breaking a seventh inning 18-all deadlock in the last of the inning.

After Environ put six runs on the board in the first inning, Ed's replied with five of their own, then erased an 8-5 second inning deficit with five more runs in the second. Leading 12-11 after three complete innings, Environ appeared to have the victory sealed when it scored six runs in the fourth, but Ed's refused to quit and came back with three in its fourth and tied the game with a 4-run surge in the bottom of the fifth.

Jim Thomas wielded a potent bat for the winners as he slugged two roundtrippers and counted five RBIs and mate Ken Gawkowski helped pitcher Coy Mathews's cause with four hits, including a triple and 4 runs batted in.

Mike McGuff kept Environ in the game thanks to four hits, including a homer and double and five RBIs. Steve McCullum had a pair of singles and doubles. Mende was tagged for 21 hits and the loss.

Distrion scored twice in the top of the seventh to edge The Gerry Whitehill, a 6-2, 180-pound sophomore, has the nod as the Eagles' starting quarterback. And he'll be operating out of the Wishbone this year. Also slated for backfield duty are tailback Billy Campbell (6-2, 180), Ronnie Maull (5-10, 180), at fullback and Victor Hicks, who scored six TDs a year ago on the junior varsity club.

Glover has experience in first string tackle Steve Anderson, who has developed into a 6-1, 230 pound griddier; guard Bobby O'Day (6-1, 200-pounds); tight end Jason Williams (6-3, 175); and linebacker Dave Bergman (5-11, 175) who will team with Maull at a linebacker slot.

Backing up Whitehill at QB, will be Luther Shannon, who is 6-0, 173 and an excellent runner.

Although Oak Park will compete for the Metro West Conference championship in football, the Parkers are scheduled to drop out of the league next spring. But, Glover views Oak Park as the team to beat for the 1985 championship.

"We should be in there, too, if we can shy away from injuries," said the Eagle coach. "This team has the ability, and only time will tell us what it is made of."

Computer speeds up consulting firm's data work

A Livonia consulting engineering firm, that works with several Western Wayne County communities has added computer aided design (CAD) capabilities to its list of services.

A spokesman for Orchard, Hiltz and McCliment Inc., which serves as consultants to the cities of Westland and Romulus and Van Buren and Sumpter townships, noted that the CAD permits the firm to provide faster service to its clients and produce a more consistant, high quality product.

The CAD system had two independent Apollo DN300 workstations running the Design Oriented Graphics System (DOGS) Software. The drawings are output on a Hewlett Packard 758B plotter.

In conjunction with the new CAD system, Orchard, Hiltz & McCliment Inc., has also implemented a new automated field survey data collection method. This new method allows for the survey data to be recorded onto magnetic media in the field for later input to the CAD system. The new data collection method is currently using an HP41CX calculator as an electronic notebook with existing field equipment and can be used later with the planned acquisition of a survey total station.

Orchard, Hiltz & McCliment Inc., in the office, is able to input the survey data into CADserv Inc.'s RETRIEVER Software, which will automatically generate a DOGS drawing and a field note report. The time required to turn the field data into a drawing is less than four hours, with the work being done by a computer.

The field system has decreased data collection time and can furnish up to a half-mile of water main topography in an eight-hour day.

Wayne considers legal recourse to solve woe

By SUE McDONALD
ANP, Editor

The City of Wayne is striking out in several directions in hopes of finding a solution to the foul odors that intermittently erupt at the Woodland Meadows landfill on its western boundary.

The Wayne City Council last week was on the verge of bringing suit against Waste Management, which operates the landfill, or possibly seeking an injunction to stop the dumping of refuse there, but opted for a suggestion from Councilman Charles West that the city put pressure on the Wayne County Health Department and the State Department of Natural Resources to solve the problem.

The odor isn't a new problem for homeowners across Hannan Road from the dump site, nor for the city council, which in late May organized a committee to respond to complaints about odors emitting from the landfill.

Members of the council believe the odors are caused by methane gas escaping from the capped portion of the landfill, gas formed when the buried refuse begins to decompose.

Councilman Robert Beeny, who has been called out several times to investigate the odors, believes that the gas problem has been created because Waste Management waited several years to deal with it. Recommended procedure is to begin burning off the gas as soon as the landfill is capped.

Waste Management apparently had planned to sell the gas and erected four wells on the property, but rejected that idea and is now burning off eruption, spewing the gas, laden with hazardous material, into the air and posing health and safety problems for the nearby residential area.

“I have nothing against Waste Management,” Beeny said. “I just want the problem eliminated.”

The city has a meeting set up with Glenn Brown of the Wayne County Health Department for next Tuesday to discuss the problems at the site and hopefully get the department to bring pressure on Waste Management to solve it.

“We want either the health department or the state (DNR) to get on them,” City Manager Thomas Daily said. “We know it's a smell. We know there's an odor, but we don't know if it is detrimental to the public's health and safety, and the Clean Air Act doesn't address that.”

Wayne is hoping to find someone, an expert, who could walk the site and determine if the odor is caused by methane gas and where the odor is coming from. That information could be useful, if the city opts to take the issue to court, City Attorney Phil McKinney explained.

“We have to figure out the real facts,” McKinney said. “We have to find out what is causing the odor, where it is coming from and what can be done to solve the problem. What we think at the present time is that the odor is coming from the dump and that the owner should abate it.

“Once we determine where the odor is coming from, then we have to determine what can be done and if it is the legal obligation of the owner to correct it.”

According to McKinney, the city is exploring several options at once in order to find the quickest way the resolving the problem.

“It is an issue we feel should be solved in a short time frame,” he said. “We are going in several directions in an organized concerted effort to see which gets us to the solution. We want to have the fastest, cheapest solution, and hopefully we won't have to go to court.”

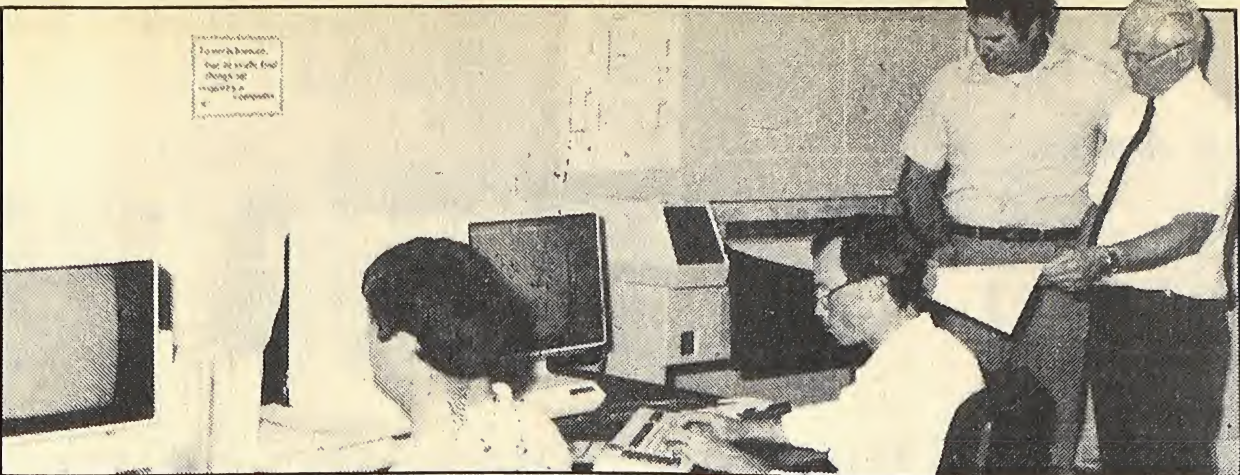

the gas. It also has placed burners at other locations on the landfill to burn off escaping gas.

At the operating portion of the landfill a vanilla scent is sprayed into the air when sludge is brought in for disposal to mask its odor.

Those burners apparently have solved some of the problem, but an Aug. 12 complaint from Mike Butler of Dennis Wayne Inc., which operates the Wayne Drive-In, about the odor apparently was prompted when one of the burners went out.

The theater has been one of the major complainants about the odors and has claimed financial losses due to movie goers leaving when the odors waft in.

SELLING VS. SELLING!

The case before the court is:

Whether or not it is a crime to slash an advertising budget during an economic downturn.

NO

Attorney for the advertiser points to the potential injury to the bottom line as a clear-cut motive to reduce ad expenditures. He reasons that budgets must always relate to sales and pleads self defense rather than temporary insanity for using the knife.

YES

Defense attorney cites previous case of ad slashing and offers as exhibits A,B,C,D post mortems of retailers who lost their confidence in their ability to motivate consumers and move merchandise.

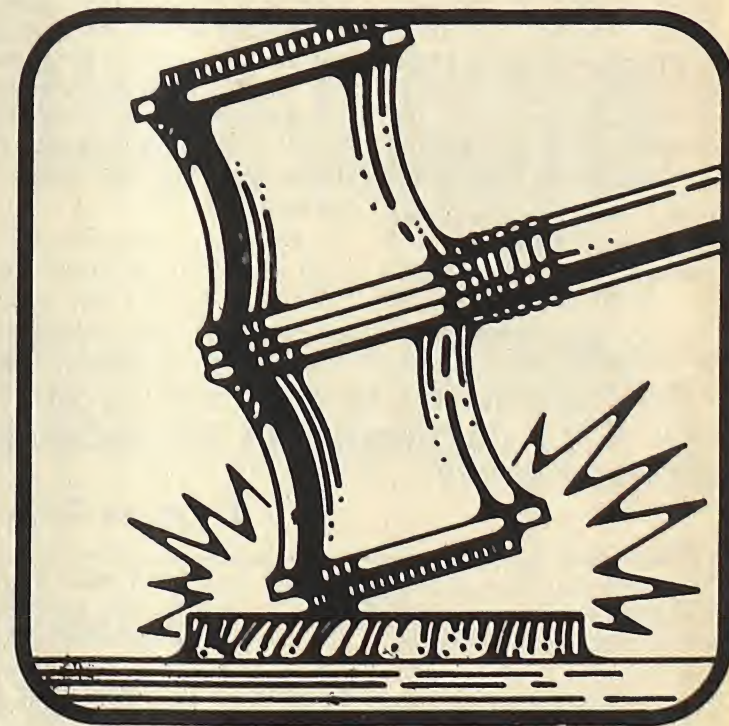

YES

In charging the jury, the judge states that they must decide whether advertising budget-makers should cut and run from recession talk or attack the problem with more selling...more advertising.

THE VERDICT IS CLEAR! ADVERTISE!...

It doesn't cost...it pays!

campaign. Mende, the winning pitcher, gave up three hits to Russ Barnett and two hits to Ron Martin.

Pounding out 11 runs in the fourth inning, Local 372 buried Skone's Place 22-6 to capture the Division I playoff championship. Losing pitcher Ed Crecheola had ample hitting support from Bill Gill, who laced two homers and 6 RBIs and Rick Burr who had four hits including a roundtripper. Jim Stevens and Sam May each homered for the winners. Dan Aman and Mike Hodges split four hits for the losers.

Skone's had to work a couple of extra innings before it managed to pull out a 6-2 victory over Federal Mogul. A pitcher's duel between Skone's Ed Crecheola and Mogul's Bill Way, neither team managed to get any runs after Federal's struck for one tally in the opening inning. Then, in the sixth, Skone's took a momentary 2-1 lead, but Federal's came right back in the bottom of that inning to tie it up. It stayed 2-all until the eighth when Skone's settled the issue.

Crecheola helped his own cause with a pair of singles while mate Eric Babler homered and singled and drove in four RBIs. Way also collected two hits and Joe McGowan had a run-scoring single.

Local 372 waited until the bottom of the seventh to unleash its scoring power, putting on the board six big runs to tie Skone's at 13-all, then broke the game open with six more runs in the extra inning for a 19-14 victory. Jim Stevens paced the winners with three hits, two going for homers. He also counted 4 RBIs. Gill checked in with a homer and a single for two RBIs. Winning pitcher John Osborne gave up a total of 24 hits, including three each to Tom Wright, Mark Babbimo and Aman who also homered.

Federal Mogul scored six times in the first inning and staked pitcher Way to an 11-0 lead before putting down Double Eagle 15-9. Way again aided his cause with three RBIs thanks to four singles. Kyle Baker latched on to a pair of singles and a triple off of losing pitcher Dave Staten. Scott Knight connected for three hits for the losers and Dennis Finrock had two.

Double Eagle was also no match for Local 372 which put to good use 13 hits to fashion a 12-5 victory over the Eagle. John Clark slammed a homer and Knight turned in with two hits. Loser Dave Staten was tagged for a homer and 3 RBIs by Gill and May also homered.

Skone's struck for five runs in the bottom of the third en route to a 10-5 victory over Federal Mogul as winner Crecheola tossed a 12-hitter. Jeff Kent missed hitting for the cycle when he failed to get a homer and Way, the losing pitcher, had two hits. Babler again led the hitting assault for the winners as he drilled a pair of homers, singled and doubled.

Mark Bubknow had two doubles and two RBIs for the winners.

Walter's just had too much over-all strength for NAPA as Jamie Hinojosa hammered a homer, double and single and accounted for three RBIs and Dave Hewitt, Lou Bryant and Ed Lucas each collected round-trippers for the winners. Mike Nielson had two doubles and two RBIs and Bill Hunt checked in with a pair of singles for the losers.

NAPA earlier stopped Horizon 7-2 with Mark Brothers blasting a four-bagger and Rick Britz picking up a single and double for the winners. Roy Warren and Rick Hessler each had two hits for the losers.

NAPA also claimed a 23-4 victory over Horizon as Don Petry turned in with four hits and Bratcher had a single, double and triple and four RBIs. Randy Hall, the winning pitcher, gave up three hits to Steve Lamb.

After exchanging two runs in the first inning, Horizon and Baldos turned to their defenses and played an exceptional game. At the end, Horizon wound up a 6-3 winner thanks to a 3-run fourth inning. Rick Hessler singled and tripled and drove in three runs for the winners and Joe Baffy checked in with two hits off of loser, Keith McArthur. McArthur and John Clark each had two hits off of winner Ed Stroud.

Walter's exploded for five runs in the fifth inning en route to a 9-2 victory over Baldos's. Jim Izeluk homered and singled and had two RBIs for the winners and Ed Lucas turned in with a pair of hits. Baldo's got a pair of hits from Tom Zibokowski.

Walter's struck for four runs in the first inning then hung on to beat NAPA 9-6. Dave Hewitt homered and singled and Ken Krupinski carded three hits for the winners. Don Pelly slammed a homer and drove in two runs and Bratcher had a run-scoring triple for the losers in a 3-run second inning.
